Secondary School Attendance

In accordance with the provisions of the Connecticut General Statutes, the Eastford Board of Education annually designates Woodstock Academy as a designated secondary school for Eastford students. The Board will pay the full tuition and shall provide transportation for any resident child attending Woodstock Academy while it remains a designated high school of the Board.

The Board will provide school accommodations to resident children at high schools other than those designated by Board policy under the following circumstances:

1. Enrollment in special programs at H. H. Ellis Regional Technical High School, Killingly Vocational-Agriculture Center, a state-approved charter school, or an interdistrict magnet school, as permitted by law.
2. Special education or Section 504-eligible students placed in an alternative high school setting in accordance with applicable law.
3. Other accredited public high schools with which the district has a current tuition contract, provided that the parents of the student arrange for transportation at no additional cost to the Board. School accommodations at such other public high schools will be in accordance with the terms and conditions of any such contractual arrangements as may be negotiated by the Superintendent and/or approved by the Board. The existence of a tuition agreement between the Board and an accredited public school does not designate such school as a “designated school” pursuant to Conn. Gen. Stat. Section 10-97.
